

ASTERS bloom from late summer into fall. They provide bright color when gardens can look dreary. Often native to the mid-Atlantic, Asters thrive in full sun to part shade in average soil, attract butterflies, have a range of flower heights, and tidy green foliage throughout the growing season. Who says fall gardens are boring?!

ASTER

Wood's Pink

divaricatus

Jindai

Wood's Blue

Wood's Purple

Purple Dome

Raydon's Favorite

Peter Harrison